A man physician has exchanged that disease will no longer exist when people quit hating him. He must be suffering from Envy Disease.

GOVERNOR BUCKNER has accepted the resignation of David T. Stansbury as Adjutant General of the State and has appointed Perry Haley as his successor.

Mrs. CLARA BARTON, President of the Red Cross Society of America, has gone to Boston, Mass., to assist in the meeting of the annual convention. The situation still remains serious. A relief fund of $2,000 was received a few days ago.

As far as I am able to ascertain, no one is as yet in the race for the nomination. I am not in a position to say who is, but I am sure that the election will be held in the month of January.

Mr. W. LYNN, the aging National Commissioner from Georgia, would attend the banquet of the Democratic National Committee at the Hotel Statler on his arrival on time at the Arlington Hotel, where the banquet had been held. He was given a place made the left wing of the hotel, and he was seated between Mr. BROWNLAW, a committee man from Tennessee.

Committee man Roberton, of North Carolina, came to attend the banquet, but when he learned of the dinner's purpose, he refused to go. When asked why he did not attend the banquet, he replied: "I came to Washington a gentleman, and I propose to leave it a gentleman."

Senator McCreary's First Speech in The Senate.

A special dispatch from Washington to the Courier Journal Dec. 11, says:

"Senator McCreary made his first speech in the Senate yesterday, and his oratory was most interesting and eloquent, being under discussion.

He was complimented by a large majority of the Senators being of the opinion that his speech was warmly received, and that his oratorical powers on both sides of the chamber.

Senator McCreary's speech was that the relations of the United States and Cuba are unusual and unprecedented. When war was declared by the United States against Spain, the question was, what was the object of that war? The answer was to give Cuba a stable and independent government.

We have complied with that provision, and now we are faced with the question, what is to be done with Cuba so auspiciously commenced, and we want, as far as possible, to help to Cuba, and to maintain our principles and our national program.

"The pending bill comes to the Senate after having received the unanimous endorsement of the House of Representatives, 355 votes having been cast for it and only one negative.

SENATOR McCREARY REPORTS.

"The Cuban reciprocity treaty is a step in the direction of tariff reform and free trade.

"He gave his reasons for his vote in favor of reciprocal trade between the United States and Cuba. He referred to the Plan of Paris, and said it was agreed upon by our Congress and the Cubans accepted it in good faith, and by the way of the Convention, and we must abide by it.

"He also gave his reasons for his vote in favor of the Cuban reciprocity treaty. He said that it was an obstacle in the way of Cuba making commercial treaties with other nations we should in every proper way support the Cuban reciprocity treaty.

"He said there is no reason why there is a tariff wall in the way, and we are lower to it or make a break in it, and that we are bound to do it.

"He said that the Cuban reciprocity treaty will give the Cuban people the right to buy and sell, and that the Cuban reciprocity treaty will be a great burden, and would be an act of justice and humanity. I therefore advocated the Cuban reciprocity treaty.

"We went upon the ticket with the understanding that we would use all fair and honorable means to secure the election of the candidates of the party of the people.

"The defeat of the candidates on the part of the people of the party of the people.

"The Cuban reciprocity treaty is a step forward, and we are bound to do it.
